

Rain No Deterrent To Firemen—They're Used to Gushing Hose

It takes more than an April rainstorm to discourage volunteer firemen. The New Jersey-New York Firemen's Association held their monthly meeting as guests of Allendale in Brookside School Friday night, as scheduled. More than 400 were present for the business meeting and entertainment, in spite of the downpour.

Mayor Frederick Burnett welcomed the visitors. Bernard T. Aschenbrand, President of the association presided. C. H. Hassenhugh, President of the N. J. State Firemen's Association reported on bills concerning fire fighters and fire fighting now before the State legislature.

Allendale Police Chief Kenneth Booth and his marshal were congratulated for nice handling of visiting cars and fire equipment.
