Auto Insurance Rate Go Up In County Over 10 Per Cent

Automobile owners in Allendale are going to have to pay higher rates for their liability insurance. The new rates apply to all policies written on or after Sept. 1. Policies which were written before Sept. 1 to be effective before Oct. 1 won't be affected until they come up for renewal.

The increases apply to basic limits coverage—that is, protection up to $5,000 for bodily injury for one person, up to $10,000 for bodily injury resulting from one accident, and up to $5,000 for property damage. This increase affects proportionately those individuals holding larger insurance coverage.

However, the size of the increases will vary depending upon classification of the vehicle covered by the policy.

Here are some of the increases on the more common classifications of private passenger cars and commercial cars as they affect residents of Allendale.

Class 1—car for non-business use and no operator under 25 years of age—the old rate for the basic limits protection was $42 a year; the new rate is $47 a year.

Class 2—car for both business and non-business use with an operator under 25 years of age old rate $68 new rate $78.

Class 3—car individually owned for business and non-business use and no operator under 25 years of age; also cars owned by corporations, partnerships and unincorporated associations, regardless of age of operator—old rate $59, new rate $68.

The new automobile liability insurance rates for New Jersey were announced by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters. This revision is part of a countrywide movement to bring rates for this form of insurance into line with the current accident frequency and cost of claims incurred by insured motorists, the Bureau said.

BERGEN COUNTY FREEHOLDER DIES

Dr. Samuel Alexander, of Park Ridge died in Hackensack shortly after noon Wednesday after what apparently was a heart attack. Dr. Alexander, Chairman of the Bergen County public health committee since 1937 and a County Freeholder for 24 years, collapsed during a conference of freeholders on a cause to which he was dedicated—the Bergen Pines County Hospital.

Persons present at the meeting said Dr. Alexander, who has been associated closely with the supervision of Bergen Pines, was speaking animatedly about the recent addition to the hospital when he collapsed.

Dr. Alexander is survived by his wife, Mrs. Francoise Klein Alexander, his son, Dr. Stewart Alexander, with whom he

ZONING ORDINANCE TO HAVE FIRST READING THURSDAY

The council will discuss several important matters at the next meeting to be held next Thursday night. The one having the most interest possibly will be the location of the triple A zones in conjunction with the much discussed Master Plan. The ordinance will be introduced at this meeting with a public hearing two weeks later.

Another matter to be taken under consideration is the opening of bids for additional grading and paving work on the station plaza.

Two resolutions will be submitted for a vote of the council. They are the placing of the questions of the borough taking over the operation of the library and the swimming pool to be submitted to the voters in November.

Mayor Leslie Johnson is expected to be absent on a delayed vacation. Council President Mayo Harvey will preside in his absence.

Mrs. Elizabeth Berdan To Retire As County Agent

After 28 years of service to Bergen County as Home Agent, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Berdan, W. Orchard, has decided to retire. Her decision was made with great reluctance, she said, for her work has been a source of pleasure and great satisfaction.

Mrs. Berdan explained that she is really not retiring from an active life because she intends to write books about her work in the field of home demonstration, and she will continue her active interest in the Garden Club and other civic organizations.

After 28 years of deadlines and meetings and conferences and speeches, Mrs. Berdan feels that she has earned some time to do the things she has never been allowed to do because of her heavy schedule of county activities.

Mrs. Berdan expressed pleasure at receiving the many expressions of friendship and thanks since her retirement was announced.

The announcement of Mrs. Berdan's retirement, to take effect Oct. 31, was made by Lindley C. Cook, associate director of the Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics at Rutgers University. She is now on leave of absence.

Director Cook announced that the home economics extension program in Bergen County will be directed by Miss Margherita Jebsen who has been a home agent since 1944, specializing in the clothing phases of the program.

Mrs. Berdan has endeared herself to many in a crucial time by her practical and kindly advice along lines of household management. This was frequently done far beyond the call of duty. Her bulletin dealing with adequate low-cost family menus written over 20 years ago during the depression days when food costs were a perplexing burden to families where the bread winners were out of jobs, are still in demand.

Local Woman Attends Centennial Of Covered Bridge in West Virginia

"What can one woman do to save a covered bridge?" This question Lucy Gray Lockle of E. Saddle River Road asked herself a number of years ago when she learned that many covered bridges which she had photographed and studied for their beauty, their engineering perfection and rich historical value were being torn down merely because they were outmoded.

To answer the question, Mrs. Lockle joined with other like minded citizens the Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges and has prepared letter seal stamps picturing many of our famous old covered bridges.

The Society recently attended a Centennial Celebration at Philippi, West Virginia to commemorate a bridge built 100 years ago across the Tygart River. The following is her account of the event:

A notable event in Covered Bridge History took place on August 28, 29 & 30th in Historic Philippi, Barbour County, West Virginia. It was the 1st celebrations of its kind and commemorated the construction of the Covered Bridge at Philippi over the Tygart River in Tygart River Valley. It was built by Lemuel Chenoweth in 1852.

The Covered Bridge at Philippi has a history that is marked by many notable events. It served for the passing of both the Blue and Grey troops during the Civil War. At one time it was on the verge of being burned by the Confederate troops and would have been, only for Elder Cordes who pleaded with the General, and fell upon his knees in prayer that this bridge be spared. Elder Cordes' sincere and earnest plea so touched the General that he ordered the hay removed and the Covered bridge was saved. Would that there were more Elder Cordes' with us today.

A LUNCH-BOX SPECIAL FOR BUSY BRAINS AND BODIES

WHILE JUNIOR AND SIS are tackling those school problems, here's a way to help you tackle the daily duty of preparing lunches. The trick is to always keep a supply of luncheon treats on hand - cheese, bread, fruit, milk and other popular drinks are indispensable. And last but not least the wonderful standby - home made real fruit spreads - popular with everyone.

Have you always thought you needed fresh fruits for jams and jellies? Why it's only a matter of minutes these days to turn canned juices and frozen and dried fruits into perfectly delicious homemade spreads. And, remember they are truly economical, too. Try this one!

APRICOT JAM (Using dried apricots) Yield: about 11 medium glasses 2 tablespoons lemon juice 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin 4 cups prepared fruit 7 cups sugar

To prepare the fruit. Add 3 1/2 cups water to 1/2 pound dried apricots. Cover and let stand 4 hours or over night. Drain, reserving liquid. Grind apricots on chop fine, mix with liquid. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Squeeze the juice from 1 medium-sized onion. Measure 2 tablespoons into saucepan with apricots. To make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam with 1/2 inch hot paraffin. (ANS Features)

BEAUTY NEWS & VIEWS

By TONI WOODWARD-ANS Features

ANCIENT TIPS FOR MODERN LADIES have been brought up to date this summer by the makers of a miracle-working series of cosmetics. Cleopatra held the key to this secret but she didn't have the benefits of today's science to adapt it to virtually every type of beauty problem.

alarming tendency to dry up as the years move on, lanolin is the obvious, but often neglected answer to supplement those fleeing natural oils.

THE PATH to a lovelier skin cannot be traced through any "magician's handbook." It can be found right in front of your own mirror where, day by day, the careful application of lanolin-soaked cream and make-up will help to reveal a beauty aid is the fact that it more than any other ingredient closely resembles the body's natural oils.

WHEN CLEO recognized the potency of lanolin's work, she probably didn't realize that the simple reason for its effectiveness as a beauty aid is the fact that it more than any other ingredient closely resembles the body's natural oils. Since these oils show an

The highlight of the year's activity, of course, was the winning of the pennant by the Allendale entry in the Turnpike Little League. Allendale had a fine record of 18 wins and 4 losses in league play.

NANCY TUCKER ENTERS NURSING

Nancy Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker of Elmwood Avenue, started her nursing career at Hackensack Hospital on Labor Day. Opening session was not indicative of the hard work to come because it was a tea for the incoming student nurses and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker attended with Nancy and inspected the nurses dormitory and met members and friends of the new class. This marked the beginning of a career which Nancy has looked forward to throughout her years in Ramsey High School from which she graduated in June.

A class of 21 pre-clinical student nurses started their studies at the Hackensack Hospital School of Nursing, as the class of September 1955.

Opening festivities began with the open house and tea for the incoming students and their parents. This is a traditional affair at the School of Nursing giving parents an op-

STORM CAUSES SLIGHT DAMAGE

The Labor Day weekend marking the traditional closing of summer was a disappointment to many people who had planned their last outdoor picnic or motoring weekend. The rain clouds which poured down on the town for two days kept people indoors but out of danger for no motoring accidents occurred in Allendale, reports Chief Robert Wilson.

However, the power was off for twelve hours in the area of Park and Brookside. Avenues on Labor Day. Rockland Electric maintenance men worked most of the holiday to bring back the power which failed during the heavy rains.

One large tree, about 20 inches in diameter, fell at the corner of Dale and Orchard Avenue. A large limb from a tree on the property of Fred Dister, Franklin Turnpike, fell onto the Turnpike causing the telephone wires to be pulled down.

Police Chief Wilson reports that the town suffered little storm damage, there were no accidents in town and it was a "quiet" weekend.

The oil industry's drilling forecast for 1952 is for 15,416 new wells, about 1,000 more than 1951's 14,516 completions.

TRUANT OFFICER HAS VARIED DUTIES

Truant officers are not ogres just waiting to pounce on some reluctant scholar. They perform a definite and valuable service to schools and community.

The work of the attendance department in public schools is three fold: legal, educational, and social. Since each community has definite school attendance laws, this group sees to their enforcement.

This department protects the educational interests of the child and investigates the social and economic conditions at home, so often related to problems of attendance.

Many state laws require that minors under 18 years of age, unless high school graduates, attend regular full time school. Exceptions are often made for 16 and 17 year-olds where extreme economic need at home exists, and where a part time school and part time work program seems to be to the best interests of the minor.

Work permits for minors are usually obtained from the Board of Education—and are signed by employer and parents. Minors must show birth certificates when making job application as child labor laws require proof of age before a permit is issued.

RED SKELTON, according to Fred Williams—and about a million others—is a very funny man. Williams, crack NBC-TV make-up man, has a terrible time before and during the Skelton program each week. Red says he, never stays still long enough to allow Williams to work on his features for more than a moment or two. He dreams up gags for key spots on the show, tries out new bits on Williams, just clowns. "Some comics are real supposed deadpans when not in front of the camera," says Williams. "But that Skelton keeps me so off-balance with his gags and funny business that I have difficulty in applying the proper make-up. Also, he works so hard during the show that I grab a nice, fresh chamomile and stand in the wings, to mop his face whenever he comes off-stage. But I get laughing so hard at his act that sometimes I forget what I'm there for. This fellow, Skelton is tops."

Family Life To-day

By Phyllis Page Bradshaw

"We don't have any problems in our family," says one mother. That sounds good, but such a statement actually shows that the family does not have a strong, close relationship. The members' association with each other is only superficial.

Parents can expect problems in family living. A family is a small group of people of different ages and experiences. They live together intimately and they have deep feelings about each other. The love between parents and children and between brothers and sisters is strong even though not always shown.

Problems and friction occur where there is a strong tie of affection. It's not a matter of serious importance when a casual stranger makes a mistake that doesn't affect you in any way. But it's of great consequence when someone you love makes a mistake. You suffer, too, and probably offer good advice.

The real test is not the presence of problems but how the family solves them. Does the family face them or evade them? The mother who said there were no problems in her family is evading the situation. Wise parents know that problems must be faced, and that the family must use its combined strength and experience to solve them.

Solutions to family problems can never be found in a list of do's and don'ts. Each problem is a part of the particular situation and the people involved. The goal is the achievement of a satisfactory solution for all members of the family. Good solutions require teamwork. The problems must be brought out in the open and fully discussed. Compromises are inevitable. Cultivate the ability to concentrate on the prob-

Looking Back

Allendale, like many communities in this area, is an old town. Its history though unspectacular, is a modest record of growth and achievement. A number of things we have dug up from the past are submitted herewith. Perhaps you remember things from the town's history which aren't common knowledge. If you have, we'd like to hear from you about them.

For example, Did you know that the first inhabitants of Allendale were the Delaware tribe of the Algonquin Indians?

A town character in the early 1900's was named John "Gridlegreaser" Van Horn, famous as a blacksmith and mechanical inventor. It is lems of long term importance instead of constantly carping on minor items. Mutual understanding and respect are the key to family problem solving.

thought that there are still remnants in the area of "Gridlegreaser's" talents - such as shotguns and old plows.

The last Royal Governor of New Jersey, with authority over Allendale was William Franklin, the illegitimate son of Benjamin Franklin.

Among the present families who bear direct descent from other early settlers are the Powells, Zabriskies, Garrisons, Ackermans, Christophers, Anthons and Quackenbushes.

The railroad eventually caused the death of the strawberry trade because the New York Commission market began to deal with produce sections farther north.

Be Careful Motorist! School Opens

The opening of school this week marks the return of our children to the highways and streets of our borough on their way to school. This creates additional hazards to the motorist who must use extreme caution especially around the school areas.

The state speed limit is 25 m.p.h. in these areas and much too fast in our estimation. 15 miles an hour is a better speed to travel when passing near schools.

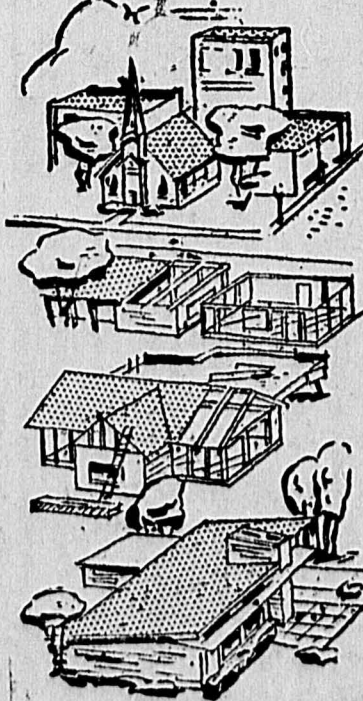

Another precaution the motorist must observe is the passing of a standing school bus. The law states a motorist must come to a complete stop when a school bus is loading or unloading from either direction. The fine for a violator is quite stiff.

Naturally it is up to the parents to see that their children obey the safety rules as well as the motorist. They should cross the streets only at the intersections and if possible only where the safety patrol is stationed.

These youngsters of the safety patrol are chosen for their ability to aid smaller children and their requests must be obeyed by the children, the parent and the motorists. In a small community with only a small police force they can and are a big factor in making our roads safer for everyone. Parents should insist the patrol's regulations be observed.

Despite the increased traffic using our streets, Allendale has been fortunate in the number of accidents to our children by cars. Lets keep the record intact.

Indian Summer Vacation Plans

TAKING A LATE TRIP? Then here's a plan to make your travel budget go further. Pack picnic fixings and stop when you're hungry... pull up under a shady tree and spread your lunch. You can travel further, less expensively, when you make plans ahead to take your meals with you.

Be sure to include coffee cups and a jar of Instant Maxwell House Coffee. One teaspoon to a cup, plus hot water and a gentle stirring will give you coffee much nearer to your heart's desire than a luke-warm brew made hours before, and there won't be any problem of what to do about coffee grounds, either.

We've entered the golden age of on-the-go eating, and for busy travelers who want to make the most of their vacations, nothing could be better. More and more public parks and camps are providing open grills where travelers can stop to prepare their own meals. It's a lot of fun to enjoy a meal prepared in the open, and quicker too, when you'd like to stay comfortable in casual traveling attire and not bother with dressing for a restaurant in town. Take a picnic lunch along with you on your vacation and see if you aren't in the mood to 'go places' more often! (ANS)

LOCAL WOMAN

(Continued From Page One) was prepared by the General Chairman, Dr. Elmer E. Myers and the Committee of the Barbour County Historical Society. Tours were scheduled by charter buses to historic points of interest: Birthplace of Anna Jarvis, founder of Mother's Day. The old jail from which the first slaves were freed following the Emancipation Proclamation. Tygart Dam Reservoir, "Elkins," home of Davis and Elkins College, which is on the site of the estates of Henry Gassaway Davis and Stephen B. Elkins, noted men in the development of this section of the United States. 'Berbery,' home of the first public playground in America. The home of Lemuel Chenoweth, and a cut along the Tygart River Valley Road shows some of the oldest Devonian Tree Fossils in the world.

Official opening of the program was by Dr. Floyd T. Holden, Pres. Barbour Co. Sistorical Society. Each night the very special and extraordinarily fine Pageant, "The Monarch of the Tygarts" was presented at the Alderson - Broadus College Amphitheatre. Written and compiled in the form of an historical document by Mary R. Hoge, Miss Hoge, who is a professor of history at Alderson - Broadus College, entitled her manuscript, "The Monarch of the Tygarts." It was then adapted for pageant presentation by Jenevieve J. Pyles. The action was in pantomime with narrators giving voice to the script. The "Spirit of Pageantry" presented the prologue and told of the construction of the bridge. "The Bridge" then speaks and relates the story of its life. Many descendants of those who lived at the time the bridge was built were present and many participated in the Pageant including the descendants of Lemuel Chenoweth.

Economics Association are included in the list of organizations which had her support. She has also devoted much time to the auxiliaries of the Hackensack and Valley Hospitals.

Another outstanding event of the Celebration was Folk Music, presented by Dr. Patrick W. Gainer, Prof. of English at West Virginia University.

At a luncheon at the Alderson-Broadus College, Mr. Leo Litwuk, President of the National Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges offices in Boston, Mass., spoke most inspiring on the need for the preservation of the Covered Bridge, a cherished - historical artifact of our National Life.

New England has long been famous for its Covered Bridges which appeal to and attract annually myriads of tourists who enjoy the indescribable beauty of scenery highways, and friendly hospitality. However, once these Covered Bridges vanish from the landscape the charm which they contribute will be lost forever.

New England is not alone in this sentiment for their preservation. There are thousands of Covered Bridges throughout

Volunteers Staff Emergency Room At County Hospital

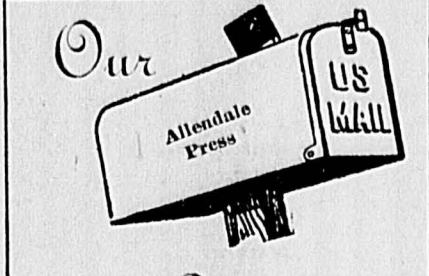

This month marks the tenth anniversary of the inauguration of the Emergency Medical Corps of Hackensack Hospital, an organization unique in hospital history. It began as an outgrowth of a World War II Defense Unit, ten year ago, but through education and training it now exceeds in poentialities any similar first aid group. Like other civil defense groups, this one took the usual standard and advanced Red Cross first aid courses as an opener. The step which started the corps on its special career was inaugurated by Drs. Spencer T. Snedecor and William K. Harryman, who felt that the volunteers under their direction were not getting enough practical experience under realistic conditions. They arranged for their group to observe at the Emergency Room of Hackensack Hospital, and thus the Emergency Room Medical Corps was born.
