Parents Hear School Planned For East Side

Members of the school board gave a full account new members were present and of their work to members of the Allendale Parent-Teachers Association Tuesday evening in the school auditorium.

The major part of the report was given by James Standring, FUND STARTED FOR president of the board. His talk dealt mainly with the school budget, which now totals about $133,000, or two thirds of the town's taxes.

Mr. Standring explained that the money is voted by the electorate at the special school board election, then raised by taxation by the Borough Council and that money specified for certain uses could only be spent as allocated. At present the cost of education per pupil per year for the grade school children as about $247. With the cost of education of high school students included, the figure is nearly $300.

The difficulties the school board faces were described by that he must pay back to the Mr. Standring, who said that government. ZONING CONTROVERSY IN BRIEF

Here, in outline form, are the positions taken on principal points at issue on zoning by the Citizens Committee in opposition to the zoning plan and by the Borough Council. There are also some notations on the regulations set up in the original zoning ordinance:

The Citizens Committee—Triple AAA zoning to be entirely eliminated.

The Council-Minimum lot requirements under AAA to be 26,000 square feet (a lot approximately 130 feet front x 200 feet depth); one-floor houses are public hearing Dec. 11. The to be 1,300 square feet.

The Original Zoning ordinance — Minimum lot size 40,000 square feet (175 x 230 feet) and one-floor house area to be 1,400 square feet.

DOUBLE AA ZONES:

Citizens Committee-Lot sizes to be 120 x 150; Members of the Chamber of house area 1,050 square feet, and Double AA to replace all presently contemplated AAA zones.

Council—Lot size to be 115 x 175; house area to be 1,200 square feet.

Original Ordinance - 120 x 150 lot size; house discussed and at present the area 1,200 square feet.

SINGLE A ZONES:

Citizens Committee—lot sizes of either 100 x 125 or 100 x 150; A-zone to take effect for all presently contemplated Double AA zones.

Council—lot sizes of 100×150 . Original Ordinance—lot size 100 x 100.

MULTIPLE DWELLING IN B ZONES

Citizens Committee—no opposition. Council—Favors raising limits on erecting or converting multiple family dwellings from a ratio of 4,000 square feet per family (as stated in original ordinance) to 5,000 square feet per family. GARAGES:

Citizens Committee—eliminate requirements for garage with each new house, and supplant this with provision for driveway to permit off-street parking.

Council—garage area or space for garage must be designated, but actual garage construction not E. Allendale Avenue, announce mandatory.

Original ordinance—Every new house must have garage.

STREETS:

Citizens Committee—Change requirements that front yards must face on "dedicated public streets" Please Turn To Page7

It was learnd this, week these opponents - now consisting principally of the large property owners who form the hard core of the so called Citizens Committee - feel they will receive more favorable treatment at the liands of the new administration. This was confirmed in a telephone conversation with George Wilson, most outspoken member of the opponents' committee.

"What we're trying to do is delay this thing so that it won't have to be amended and reprinted, at the cost of the taxpayers' dollars, time and again," Mr. Wilson said.

At the recent council meeting Mr. Wilson told Mayor Les Johnson "you're getting the cart before the horse," in trying to revise the ordinance in the face of contests over certain sections, specifically those critized in an 11 point statement drafted by Stephen VanHouten and presented as the views of the Citizens Committee.

As the matter stands now, the revisions in the ordinance have been approved unanimously and are being published in preparation for a formal amended ordinance could therefore come up for passage (Please Turn to Page Four)

TROOP 50

The meeting began at 3:30. . We made 24 cornicopias out of crepe paper and construction paper for a convalescent home for our Thanksgiving project and will fill them with cookies later. We talked about what we would do to help make their Christmas happy and we discussed the things which we will make for our parents Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Fox told us that Mary Scafuro, Pegge Dean and Betty Hughes have had perfect attendance, full uniform and no tardiness at meetings. That means they are the only ones in our troop still eligible for the Tri Color Award. There is still a long way to go. The meeting closed at 4:30. . . .

COUNCIL VOTES NO ON JOB PETITION A test of sentiment on nonconforming uses of property was taken by Councilman Frank McCord at the recent Borough Council meeting.

He made a motion that Pat John tavern, the Crescent Inn, be zoned for business. The mo tion was unanimously defeated. Mr. McCord said that he brought the matter to a vote of the council because he had promised Mr. Job that he would. In rejecting the motion, the Council said they voted against the motion because it would open the door to "spot zoning." Also, the said, the revisions in the proposed zoning ordinance provided non conforming businesses with proper protection.

Mr. Job thanked Mr. McCord or "sticking to his word." but. said he was disappointed in the vote and could not accept their decision as the final word. He said he "was not satisfied' and that he would "carry the matter further - into the courts if necessary."

DONORS NEEDED FOR BLOODMOBILE VISIT

Mrs. M. A. Kenyon, chairman for the Defense Blood Program of the Ramapo Velley chapter of Red Cross, has in hand about 140 pledges for donors for the Dec. 3 appearance of the Bloodmobile in Ramsey. She is appealing for about 60 more persons to pledge, to fill the quota of 200 donors needed to insure filling the goal of 125 pints of blood on December 3.

Mrs. Kenyon emphasizes the fact that any blood donated to the Red Cross via the Bloodmobile is used solely for the armed forces fighting in Korea. It is converted into plasma within ten hours of withdrawak and shipped by plane to the battle front where it aids in saving the lives of those wounded.

A donation made on Dec. 3 may be a lifesaving Christmas gift from the donor to a battle casulty.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Masonic Temple on Franklin Turnpike, Ramsey from 1 to 7 p.m.

Those wishing to donate may indicate their desire by calling Red Cross headquarters in Ramsey Municipal Building or Mrs. William B. Quaintance in Allendale.

Lets Stop This Fighting!

Right now the borough of Allendale is seemingly divided into two rival camps, those who approve the zoning ordinance and those who are in opposition It's too bad that the division exists because it is not good for the borough anymore than the railroad tracks that have divided the borough and held back its natural development.

The objectors who made up the bulk of the hearings of the council in September were objectors to the proposed Master Plan. In the whole it was a good plan and it still is. We believe it was misunderstood by most people that the Master Plan was only a guide, not a law, and the Planning Board (unduly defensive about its project) just didn't get that idea over to the people.

Of course, some of the items in the Plan were pretty far-fetched, and these could have been eliminated before the public hearings. But they were not and we see the results of it right now, at every council meeting.

We have attempted to analyze the differences between the opposing viewpoints on the new zoning ordinance as drawn up in another section of the paper and right now the differences are not so great that agreement is impossible. The sooner we can get away from the haggling and pettiness the sooner we can accomplish the final result that everybody wants — a sensible zoning law. We must forget the personal feelings and private feuds and get down to business.

Right now it looks like both sides are being stubborn. The lame duck council is determined they will put through an ordinance and the Citizens Committee seems unwilling to compromise the position that they have maintained all the

Here is where we go into the dog house with both sides but as The Allendale Press has always maintained and independent viewpoint, we feel this is for the best interests of the borough.

You taxpayers should study the various points of difference and let your opinions bring weight to bear to settle this thing before it gets out of hand. The delay and the growing bitterness are bad for the borough and at the same time hard on our pocketbooks.

In grades two and three we are starting to sing very simple songs at sight. First we sing with numbers then we call the words. In grades three and four we have songs in our books which are not completed and we young composers are ifnishing them ourselves. Craig Smith composed a song with help from the class, which Mrs. Knight wrote out for the class in large black notes. This is fun and we hope to do more of this. In Grades five and six we are starting to use the Autoharp to accompany some of our songs. In Grades seven and eight we are trying to harmonize as best we can. The eighth grade heard a new piece and wrote down their impressions -what thoughts came to them as they listened. The re-

GIRL SCOUTS TO SING CAROLS AT CHRISTMAS TIME

Plans were made at the Girl Scout leader's meeting held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Thomas for Girl Scouts and Brownies to sing Christmas Carols during the holiday season.

The Brownies will sing for a half hour starting at 5:45 p. m. Monday Dec. 22, at the Erie Railroad station. That same evening the Girl Scouts will sing carols at various places throughout the town.

Mrs. Robert Thomas and Mrs. Harold Fox are planning the route the carolers will take and are anxious to have the names of people who would like the Girl Scouts to sing for them. A sign up sheet will be placed in the Post Office for this purpose.

Mrs. Josephine Lott has agreed to teach new songs to troop representatives once a week. The group will meet at Mrs. Lott's home on Myrtle Avenue on Thursday afternoons.

At the meeting it was also announced that hereafter Girl Scouts and Brownie groups must apply for fire permits before building any fires, either for cook-outs or campfires.

Due to the heavy schedule of Christmas activities the Girl Scout leaders decided to skip their December meeting and meet again in January.

position on this specific matter, presumably stands on the amended ordinance. The ordinance says that its provisions shall take precedence over "such rules, regulations or permits or by such private restrictrictions . . . The provision of this ordinance shall control.

OTHER CITIZENS COMMITTEE SUGGESTIONS

The Citizens committee suggested that roads be included as a part of the zoning ordinance, and recommended that all secondary roads should be of 50foot right of way with 20-foot macadam paying with 6-inch penetration. In case of a road connecting two main arteries, a full 30-foot road with curbing would be required, by sidewalks not mandatoy in any case. OTHER COUNCIL AMENDMENTS:

1. In accord with Planning Board recommendation, the council amended the ordinance to delete the so-called C1 zone, thus not providing for outlying "neighborhood business districts."

2. Zoned Harold Christopher's garage for D (industrial) zone instead of A zone, as suggested.

3. Zoned Mrs. Elizabeth Berdan's property as C (business) instead of A, as suggested.

There were several other minor changes in the ordinance, intended to clarify the language of the law, and the Council also changed the zoning of two lots to conform with the surrounding area after hearing a plea from J. M. Christopher.
